SATURDAY AND SUNDAY MEETING

Great Crowd at the Rink on Saturday Night—The Building Packed at the Men's Meeting on Sunday—The Largest Audience of the Series on Sunday Night.

Mrs. Ted Brookes presided at the piano Saturday night and Miss Alva Jackman at the organ, when Weeden started the song service at ten minutes after 7 o'clock, the crowd commencing to gather as soon as the rink doors were thrown open, the women assembling much more rapidly than the men, and seeking choice points of observation in the gallery. By the way, gentlemen in charge of affairs, see to it that bass singers make their appearance on the platform, as Weeden is solicitous of more power in this department. The lady singers are responding nobly to the call for volunteers, and the male voices should easily be secured, as there is splendid talent connected with the churches of East Liverpool.

The galleries were jammed at 7:45, and Schiverea gave orders that the ushers should not allow any more ladies to enter until the hour of 8 o'clock, it being desired that room should be retained for the men, and that after the hour of 8, the ladies would have the privilege of occupying any space unoccupied down stairs. Prayer service and song service held control until the hour of 8:30 o'clock, when Schiverea commenced his address, after Weeden sang, in superb voice, "The hand upon the wall," the male quartet making delicious melody in the chorus. You missed a treat, readers of the News Review, when you failed to hear this selection, a rich combination of wondrous melody, pregnant with meaning for saint and sinner.

There was fun in the audience, and a rich ripple of laughter, just before the offering was taken, when Schiverea arose and said: "I see a man in the gallery." Every eye was at once sent gallery-ward, and the male man shot up his good right arm, the muscular hand grasping a collection basket. He was on duty, and Schiverea blushed as he grasped the situation.

"Work and Wages. 'The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life.' God bless the workingmen of East Liverpool and the workingmen of this great nation. It's an awful pity that men, who are willing to work, cannot find employment, and I pray God that such a state of affairs may not last long in these United States. I'm not here to talk politics, but I will say 'God bless McKinley.' He is the friend of the workingman, and I hope he will be president of this great land.

"I felt good today, men, at the grand meeting at the glass house, where I received such a cordial welcome. God bless the glassworkers. I worked in a glass house in my boyhood days. Men I have received splendid treatment at the hands of the workingmen of East Liverpool, with but one exception. You know that in many places I have been called the working people's evangelist, and I am very proud of the title.

"There's a class of workmen in East Liverpool for whom I'm very, very sorry. They are employed in sin, and they are reaping an awful harvest. Men, they are ashamed of their occupation, something which no honest man should be. Every man, every honest workman, should be proud of his work, as I have noted good workmen are in the glass house and in the potteries of your city. I never yet found a man proud of the work of sin.

"I knew a man to work steady all week, draw his wages on Saturday, pay his beer bill, get a few extra drinks, then engage in gambling, lose all the rest of his money, go home drunk, abuse his children, then strike his wife a brutal blow between the eyes, blacking them and sending her to the floor. When he became sober, he begged that wife, a noble woman, to say that she had been cutting wood and a piece flew up and hit her. You see the miserable fellow was ashamed of his work.

"Men, are you proud of the fact that you have broken your mother's heart; that you have ruined a fine girl and sent her out into the world as an outcast and object of contempt, ruined for time and for eternity? Are you proud of your drunkenness, of your blasphemy? Are you proud that you are a thief, with every man's hand against you? Are you proud of your rum drinking? Are you proud of taking the money which you should take home to wife and children, and placing it on the gaming table, lose the same, and then let wife and babies become objects of charity? Show me a man in all this great city who will be proud of such work, such a life.

"Oh, how a good woman will adhere to a drunken, abusive husband, made a demon on earth through the use of rum. I can't understand it. John B. Gough relates a story of a woman whom he visited and found her in a dying condition, and who insisted that her husband was a good man when he was not under the influence of whiskey, and yet after developments showed that her body, from head to foot, was a mass of bruises from the same 'good husband.' Oh, the loving mercy of a loving woman.

"A poor drunken man abused his wife, abused his children; lost character, lost property, almost lost his immortal soul. Then Jesus saved him. I met him some time afterward, well dressed and bright-faced, a handsome wife by his side, also well dressed, and a beautiful little girl, clad in the best of clothing. He was a proud man. I met him a few weeks afterward and he was on the run. I stopped him and asked him the cause of his hurry, and he replied: 'Don't stop me, Schiverea, I'm on the way to the bank to make a deposit, and this will be the first money I've put in bank since my marriage. I've paid all my debts, and now here goes for my first deposit.' I said to him: 'Go it, go it, go it!' and I'd pushed him all the way to the bank if I could."

Schiverea then related the story of the patron of the rum shop, who gave all his money to the saloon keeper and had to be content with "cat meat" for his family, while the saloon keeper purchased sirloin steak for his wife and family, money he had robbed the working man of, giving him no other equivalent than sorrow, shame and suffering.

Next came the story of the free lunch fiend, who had been sampling all the free lunches he possibly could, and spending the ready cash he had in alcohol. Finally the food and the alcohol had a terrible battle in his interior, with the result that the food was routed. At that moment a lean, miserable cur came in sight, as the miserable sot was hanging on to a lamp post, and the fellow had a confidential chat with himself, owning up as to the different free lunch counters he had visited, and the various articles disposed of there, but sadly puzzled as to where he had taken in the dog.

A roar of laughter went up all over the rink at the relation of this ridiculous yarn, told in an inimitable manner by the evangelist. The writer felt that such an incident was out of place in such grand work as is being done here, and mentally chided Schiverea for using it, especially as it is an old-timer; but the next incident was awful in its meaning, and the newsgatherer caught on to the idea that the evangelist had a two-fold idea in the narrative—the one showing how whiskey will make a complete fool of a man, making him the laughing stock of the on-lookers, while the same alcoholic stimulant will make a man an absolute devil, a fiend incarnate, willing to do horrid murder, in order to secure means to gratify his hell-born thirst. The evangelist rested until the laughter had ceased, and then impressively said:

"Listen, men, listen! I'll give you another incident. 'Tis a scene coming under my own knowledge, connected with the occupant of a prison cell, his hands clutched in his hair, as he shouted out: 'There she is, there she is! I can see her tangled hair, and the baby in her arms. Don't you see her, men, keep her away, keep her away!' Then men, the prison chaplain told me the story. The prisoner was a skillful shoemaker, but a hard drinker; he had a noble wife, and she did everything she could to redeem him from ruin. He was passing a house where good women had provided entertainment for workingmen, and was about to enter, when he met a nice looking lady at the door. She urged him to come in, but he backed out, and said: 'No, excuse me, I'll not come in now, but wife and myself will come in on Sunday next.' He went home and said to his loving wife: 'Wife, thank God, I'm going with you to the Mission on Sunday night. I'm going to be a better man. I'm going to try to live right and quit drinking. I'm going to make you a happier woman.' This was on Wednesday. On Thursday he repeated his story, and on Friday the same. On Saturday, pay day, his wife kept anxiously looking for him, but he did not come at the regular hour. Where was he? Men, he drew his pay, and went to the saloon to pay off his bill; paid it and was induced to take a parting drink. This roused the devil in him, and he drank until every penny he had was gone. Then he staggered home, a drunken devil in his heart; a fiend,

calling out for more rum. He asked his broken-hearted wife for money, and she told him she had but 30 cents for food for Sunday, and finally gave him 15 cents. He staggered out into the night, got more rum, came back and demanded the other 15 cents. The poor woman told him she had spent it for food; and then that rum-maddened wretch seized a shoe knife, grasped the noble, self-sacrificing wife in his arms, and drove it six different times into her loving heart, and reeled out into the night, and when the neighbors came in and discovered the horror, the prattling little babe was at the mother's breast, its tiny hands dripping with the mother's heart's blood. Why don't you laugh, men? Why don't you laugh now? Oh, the awful horror of the curse which saloon keepers furnish to men. The cursed stuff which makes a fool of one poor wretch and a murderer of another.

"Think of it, men. You who do the work of sin get, as wages, poor clothes, poor health, loss of character, desecrated homes, broken-hearted mothers and wives, suffering and hungry children. Answer me, men of East Liverpool! In the name of God, men, will you continue to work for such wages?

"What's the matter with the working man of today? When you work, you want a right and just equivalent, and you have a right to expect it. But when you work for sin, you get nothing in return but sorrow and shame. The doom of the saloon keeper, if he die in his work, is eternal torment: there is no escape for him. Think of it, working men of East Liverpool; you work all week and work hard, earning your living by the sweat of your brow, and on Saturday night you draw your pay; very many of you take your money to the lazy saloon keeper, who does not toil or sweat, and give it to him for that which is no fit equivalent; but, on the contrary, is the curse of curses to you, robbing your family and destroying yourself, soul and body. In the name of common sense, manhood and God, men, quit such awful foolishness.

"Dead in sin. I knew a young banker who gambled and who robbed his employer. He was detected and discharged. He was a bright, keen business man, and a splendid accountant. I tried to get him a position, but the business man said to me: 'He's a thief, sir; he can't get into a bank as an employe any place in this country.' He was dead in sin, men.

"When in Chicago, I knew of a Roman Catholic priest who was sent for to come to a dying man, dying in a saloon, with dancing, drunkenness and debauchery going on all around. The man of God found it too late. He took his watch from his pocket and held it up, counting the seconds, and those looking on said: 'What are you doing?' He replied: 'I'm counting the seconds until this man's soul goes to hell. I can't help him. And you—you will come before God's throne and hear the words—depart from me.'

"I'm down on strikes, men. No good comes out of them. No good came out of Chicago. No good came out of Homestead. But I'd like to see one big strike in East Liverpool. 'What kind of a strike did you say, Schiverea?' you ask. Listen, men. A strike against sin. A strike against the wages sin pays. No more pay days in favor of the devil; in favor of the gambling dens, in favor of the saloon keeper. Strike, men, strike, and our God will win a glorious victory for you, through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Weeden then sang a touching, pathetic selection, and many men came forward and shook hands with the evangelist and promised to try for a better life.

SUNDAY MORNING.

The Sabbath morning meeting at the rink attracted a large audience, the evangelist taking as his topic, "The Baptism of the Holy Ghost." There was evidently much good accomplished in this talk intended for professing Christians.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

There was an immense audience of men present. Eddie Macrum presided at piano, with Rev. Whitehead at organ, while the cornets of Messrs. Stoddard and Bennett added to the melody. Announcements were made for the week as follows: Prayer meetings at 9:30 every morning in the First U. P. church. Bible readings every afternoon, at three o'clock, in the First Presbyterian church.

"Second chapter of First Kings: 'Now the day drew near that he should die.' etc. We all must die; no matter what else our belief, we all admit that there comes a time when we all must die. There is one incident in our lives we never forget—our mother's prayers. They follow us through life.

made to mother, when she lay dying. How have you kept that promise, men? Mother is in heaven; where are you? If you have not kept your promise, God will hold you responsible. Fathers, what are you prepared to leave your sons? Are you leaving them a blessed heritage or a curse. A fond and loving mother came to me and urged me to talk to her son. I did so, and he flung this in my face: 'Don't give me any such nonsense. I don't take any stock in such rubbish. I'm in for a good time.' Yes, God pity him, he was in for what he called a good time. His father had given him a fine farm, well stocked and free from debt, and the first thing he put upon that farm, after his dear father's death, was a mortgage, and his first purchase was a fast horse. Money was a curse and a snare to that boy. Men of East Liverpool, what do you purpose leaving your sons? I believe as I believe in my existence, that the father transmits his characteristics and habits in life to his children. I believe that I inherited the curse of rum, for I'd drink the remnants in the glass when a mere baby, the infernal stuff left in the glass by my father. The sins of the fathers upon the heads of the children, even to the third and fourth generation. Men, it's awful to contemplate. Will you leave your children bound down with appetites for alcohol and every form of villainess? You can, if you will, by God's wondrous love, leave them a blessed inheritance of good character, pure life and the Savior's blessing. I was walking through the snow at one time, with my dear little son following me. He found it hard work and cried out: 'Papa, be careful, I'm walking in your foot-steps.' Oh, how my heart leaped as I thought of all the speech of my boy meant, unknown to him, and I said to myself, as I paid attention to his childish plea: 'God bless you, my boy, and the merciful God help me. I'll be a better man, by the help of the master, and walk more carefully than I have ever done before.'

"Stephen Rogers murdered a policeman in New York, and was to hang for the deed. His father came to see him in his cell, and said to him: 'Oh, my boy, I can't bear to see you die such a death.' And that man's son said to him: 'I shall go to the gallows on account of the accused example you set me. When I was a mere child you sent me to the saloon with a beer pitcher, and I heard there all the villainess and blasphemy imaginable, and then I learned to drink and curse. I'll go to hell in a short time, and I'll accuse you, my father, of sending me there.' Men, it was awful. Do you wonder that the father of that doomed boy staggered out of that jail, with an awful look upon his face.

"What is the first stone of true manhood? Character, of course. Keep novels and vile books and papers away from you. Fox's Police Gazette is often the first thing which greets your eye when you enter a barber shop. Why, men, if I had a yellow dog, and the cur would run across the pages of that vile paper, I'd feel compelled to shoot the dog. I wouldn't let a barber shave me, if he took the Police Gazette. I'd be afraid he'd try to cut my throat. Bah, the nasty sheet, put on the market to appeal to every vile impulse in the human heart.

"Then be careful of your company. Bad company has carried many a bright young man straight down to hell. I've known young men, thank God, who were straight on the road to ruin, turn square about face, drop their bad company, bad habits, and, through the mercy of Jesus, whom they accepted as their savior, live clean, pure and true lives. They made it pay, for time and eternity. God save some of that class here today.

"Then the power of appetite. It's an awful power. The appetite for rum, the appetite of unholiness and licentiousness. Men, by the grace of my God, of your God, of our God, take these base appetites, these inheritances of sin, by the throat, and crush them beneath your feet; resolve, by God's help, to be a man in the truest sense of the term. Then your influence for good will be a wonderful power. A true man will never abuse a good wife, little children, or a loving mother. In the language of the good book, 'be strong and show yourself a man.'

"Oh, the miserable wrecks which some children are through the sins of their parents. I have heard a young man, only 17 years of age, scream curses at his own father, through the bars of a prison where he was confined, and pray that he might be permitted to kill that father, all on account of the terrible condition in which that father had placed the boy, through unholiness.

"Men, you ask me where you will get strength and power to attain true manhood. I'll tell you. I'll tell you. You can have it for the asking by coming to Jesus, without money and without price. It is the free gift of God, purchased by and through His son. You can gain the knowledge of how to proceed through the blessed Bible, God's own word; the blessed book, the book of books, which some of the MEMBERS OF THE SCHOOL BOARD ARE TRYING TO KEEP OUT OF YOUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF EAST LIVERPOOL—WHICH MAY GOD FORBID. Yes, men, Jesus, the personal Savior of all mankind, will give you the strength you stand in need of."

The after meeting was the very best and most blessed which has yet been held, very many fine looking young men coming forward and promising to reach true manhood.

SUNDAY NIGHT.

Miss Emma Maple presided at the organ Sunday night, with Mrs. Ida Watkins at the piano. After prayer service and reading of scripture, came the offering, and then Weeden sang a beautiful selection in superb manner, in the presence of the largest audience which has yet attended the evangelistic meetings, main body and galleries being packed, with great numbers standing. Surely, the people of East Liverpool are awake in this battle for the right. After another prayer, Weeden sang a second solo, and the vast audience listened with rapt attention to the plea of the dying little girl that her father might meet her in heaven.

"The 27th of Matthew and 22d verse. 'What shall I do with Jesus, which is called the Christ?' It was a crisis in the life of Pilate; his last opportunity: his choice for heaven or hell; eternal joy or never-ending torment. God gives every man and woman ample opportunity to save their immortal souls; but there will come a day to every one, as to Pilate, when you will have your last chance. In the name of the Master, men and women of East Liverpool, let me plead with you to be very careful; you have the 'now' for yourself; but this night, ere you pass out of this rink, may be your last opportunity.

"What did this man Pilate do unto Jesus and unto himself? Pilate was dishonest. He knew that Jesus was innocent; he knew that Jesus was sent from God, and he called for a basin of water, that he might wash his hands, and thus be innocent of Christ's blood. He virtually said: 'I know that this is the Savior of the world, of Jew and Gentile; the son of the living God.' Pilate acted contrary to what he knew he should have done. You hold up your hands in horror at the deed of Pilate. And yet every man and woman in this rink tonight who rejects Christ, acts precisely as did Pilate; you are acting dishonestly towards yourselves. It's an awful thing to rob your neighbor; but, oh the awful feature of robbing yourself and your God—a soul purchased with the blood of Jesus, the Son of God.

"Column after column of the space in our daily papers is devoted to suicides. What causes these suicides? Let me tell you. It's the battle going on in the human breast, between conscience and free will, or moral power. Conscience lashes and stings a man and tells him to do right, compelling him to exercise his free will power; tells him to be honest and true and bow the knee to God. Man's free will power is stubborn and says: 'I will not yield, I believe that Jesus died to save my soul, but I refuse to surrender.' Then comes the awful struggle, the battle to the death between conscience and will power, and suicide is often the result.

"A Christian mother died in a poor house, and I assisted others in seeing to her burial. The husband was a German infidel. After the burial of the wife, the little daughter came to me and pleaded with me to come and see her father. I told the child I could do him no good, that he would not listen to me; but she pleaded the more, and I finally accompanied her and found the remains of her father in a rough box, one of those used to put a coffin in. He had come home from the funeral, secured some deadly poison, quick and awful in its action, came back to his home and cried out as he took the same, in the presence of his little girl: 'I can't stand it; oh, I can't stand it; and so died, and the little daughter had come to me to have me say kind words to her in that awful hour.

"Men came here this afternoon, told me they knew I was right on this question, shook hands with me, but had not the moral courage to ask God to forgive them. Oh, men, how I pity you.

"A loving mother sent her boy to hear me talk about Jesus. He went home from the meeting, and answered

The evangelist rested until the laughter had ceased, and then impressively said:

"Listen, men, listen! I'll give you another incident. 'Tis a scene coming under my own knowledge, connected with the occupant of a prison cell, his hands clutched in his hair, as he shouted out: 'There she is, there she is! I can see her tangled hair, and the baby in her arms. Don't you see her, men, keep her away, keep her away!' Then men, the prison chaplain told me the story. The prisoner was a skillful shoemaker, but a hard drinker; he had a noble wife, and she did everything she could to redeem him from ruin. He was passing a house where good women had provided entertainment for workmen, and was about to enter, when he met a nice looking lady at the door. She urged him to come in, but he backed out, and said: 'No, excuse me, I'll not come in now, but wife and myself will come in on Sunday next.' He went home and said to his loving wife: 'Wife, thank God, I'm going with you to the Mission on Sunday night. I'm going to be a better man. I'm going to try to live right and quit drinking. I'm going to make you a happier woman.' This was on Wednesday.

On Thursday he repeated his story, and on Friday the same. On Saturday, pay day, his wife kept anxiously looking for him, but he did not come at the regular hour. Where was he. Men, he drew his pay, and went to the saloon to pay off his bill; paid it and was induced to take a parting drink. This roused the devil in him, and he drank until every penny he had was gone. Then he staggered home, a drunken devil in his heart; a fiend, calling out for more rum. He asked his broken-hearted wife for money, and she told him she had but 30 cents for food for Sunday, and finally gave him 15 cents. He staggered out into the night, got more rum, came back and demanded the other 15 cents. The poor woman told him she had spent it for food; and then that rum-maddened wretch seized a shoe knife, grasped the noble, self-sacrificing wife in his arms, and drove it six different times into her loving heart, and reeled out into the night, and when the neighbors came in and discovered the horror, the prattling little babe was at the mother's breast, its tiny hands dripping with the mother's heart's blood. Why don't you laugh, men? Why don't you laugh now? Oh, the awful horror of the curse which saloon keepers furnish to men. The cursed stuff which makes a fool of one poor wretch and a murderer of another.

"Think of it, men. You who do the work of sin get, as wages, poor clothes, poor health, loss of character, desecrated homes, broken-hearted mothers and wives, suffering and hungry children. Answer me, men of East Liverpool! In the name of God, men, will you continue to work for such wages?"

"What's the matter with the working man of today? When you work, you want a right and just equivalent, and you have a right to expect it. But when you work for sin, you get nothing in return but sorrow and shame. The doom of the saloon keeper, if he die in his work, is eternal torment: there is no escape for him. Think of it, working men of East Liverpool; you work all week and work hard, earning your living by the sweat of your brow, and on Saturday night you draw your pay; very many of you take your money to the lazy saloon keeper, he who does not toil or sweat, and give it to him for that which is no fit equivalent; but, on the contrary, is the curse of curses to you, robbing your family and destroying yourself, soul and body. In the name of common sense, manhood and God, men, quit such awful foolishness.

"Dead in sin. I knew a young banker who gambled and who robbed his employer. He was detected and discharged. He was a bright, keen business man, and a splendid accountant. I tried to get him a position, but the business man said to me: 'He's a thief, sir; he can't get into a bank as an employe any place in this country.' He was dead in sin, men.

"When in Chicago, I knew of a Roman Catholic priest who was sent for to come to a dying man, dying in a saloon, with dancing, drunkenness and debauchery going on all around. The man of God found it too late. He took his watch from his pocket and held it up, counting the seconds, and those looking on said: 'What are you doing?' He replied: 'I'm counting the seconds until this man's soul goes to hell. I can't help him. And you—you will come before God's throne and hear the words—depart from me.'

"I'm down on strikes, men. No good comes out of them. No good came out of Chicago. No good came out of Homestead. But I'd like to see one big strike in East Liverpool. 'What kind of a strike did you say, Schiverea?' you ask. Listen, men. A strike against sin. A strike against the wages sin pays. No more pay days in favor of the devil; in favor of the gambling dens, in favor of the saloon keeper. Strike, men, strike, and our God will win a glorious victory for you, through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Weeden then sang a touching, pathetic selection, and many men came forward and shook hands with the evangelist and promised to try for a better life.

SUNDAY MORNING.

The Sabbath morning meeting at the rink attracted a large audience, the evangelist taking as his topic, "The baptism of the Holy Ghost." There was evidently much good accomplished in this talk intended for professing Christians.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

There was an immense audience of men present. Eddie Macrum presided at piano, with Rev. Whitehead at organ, while the cornets of Messrs. Stoddard and Bennett added to the melody. Announcements were made for the week as follows: Prayer meetings at 9:30 every morning in the First U. P. church. Bible readings every afternoon, at three o'clock, in the First Presbyterian church.

"Second chapter of First Kings: 'Now the day drew near that he should die.' etc. We all must die; no matter what else our belief, we all admit that there comes a time when we all must die. There is one incident in our lives we never forget—our mother's prayers. They follow us through life.

made to mother, when she lay dying. How have you kept that promise, men? Mother is in heaven; where are you? If you have not kept your promise, God will hold you responsible. Fathers, what are you prepared to leave your sons? Are you leaving them a blessed heritage or a curse. A fond and loving mother came to me and urged me to talk to her son. I did so, and he flung this in my face: 'Don't give me any such nonsense. I don't take any stock in such rubbish. I'm in for a good time.' Yes, God pity him, he was in for what he called a good time. His father had given him a fine farm, well stocked and free from debt, and the first thing he put upon that farm, after his dear father's death, was a mortgage, and his first purchase was a fast horse. Manev was a curse and a snare to that boy. Men of East Liverpool, what do you purpose leaving your sons? I believe as I believe in my existence, that the father transmits his characteristics and habits in life to his children. I believe that I inherited the curse of rum, for I drink the remnants in the glass when a mere baby, the infernal stuff left in the glass by my father. The sins of the fathers upon the heads of the children, even to the third and fourth generation. Men, it's awful to contemplate. Will you leave your children bound down with appetites for alcohol and every form of villainess? You can, if you will, by God's wondrous love, leave them a blessed inheritance of good character, pure life and the Savior's blessing. I was walking through the snow at one time, with my dear little son following me. He found it hard work and cried out: 'Papa, be careful, I'm walking in your footsteps.' Oh, how my heart leaped as I thought of all the speech of my boy meant, unknown to him, and I said to myself, as I paid attention to his childish plea: 'God bless you, my boy, and the merciful God help me. I'll be a better man, by the help of the master, and walk more carefully than I have ever done before.'

"Stephen Rogers murdered a policeman in New York, and was to hang for the deed. His father came to see him in his cell, and said to him: 'Oh, my boy, I can't bear to see you die such a death.' And that man's son said to him: 'I shall go to the gallows on account of the accused example you set me. When I was a mere child you sent me to the saloon with a beer pitcher, and I heard there all the villainess and blasphemy imaginable, and then I learned to drink and curse. I'll go to hell in a short time, and I'll accuse you, my father, of sending me there.' Men, it was awful. Do you wonder that the father of that doomed boy staggered out of that jail, with an awful look upon his face.

"What is the first stone of true manhood? Character, of course. Keep novels and vile books and papers away from you. Fox's Police Gazette is often the first thing which greets your eye when you enter a barber shop. Why, men, if I had a yellow dog, and the cur would run across the pages of that vile paper, I'd feel compelled to shoot the dog. I wouldn't let a barber shave me, if he took the Police Gazette. I'd be afraid he'd try to cut my throat. Bah, the nasty sheet, put on the market to appeal to every vile impulse in the human heart.

"Then be careful of your company. Bad company has carried many a bright young man straight down to hell. I've known young men, thank God, who were straight on the road to ruin, turn square about face, drop their bad company, bad habits, and, through the mercy of Jesus, whom they accepted as their savior, live clean, pure and true lives. They made it pay, for time and eternity. God save some of that class here today.

"Then the power of appetite. It's an awful power. The appetite for rum, the appetite of unholy passion and licentiousness. Men, by the grace of my God, of your God, of our God, take these base appetites, these inheritances of sin, by the throat, and crush them beneath your feet; resolve, by God's help, to be a man in the truest sense of the term. Then your influence for good will be a wonderful power. A true man will never abuse a good wife, little children, or a loving mother. In the language of the good book, 'be strong and show yourself a man.'

"Oh, the miserable wrecks which some children are through the sins of their parents. I have heard a young man, only 17 years of age, scream curses at his own father, through the bars of a prison where he was confined, and pray that he might be permitted to kill that father, all on account of the terrible condition in which that father had placed the boy, through unholy appetite.

"Men, you ask me where you will

get strength and power to attain true manhood. I'll tell you. I'll tell you. You can have it for the asking by coming to Jesus, without money and without price. It is the free gift of God, purchased by and through His son. You can gain the knowledge of how to proceed through the blessed Bible, God's own word; the blessed book, the book of books, which some of the MEMBERS OF THE SCHOOL BOARD ARE TRYING TO KEEP OUT OF YOUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF EAST LIVERPOOL—WHICH MAY GOD FORBID. Yes, men, Jesus, the personal Savior of all mankind, will give you the strength you stand in need of."

The after meeting was the very best and most blessed which has yet been held, very many fine looking young men coming forward and promising to reach true manhood.

SUNDAY NIGHT.

Miss Emma Maple presided at the organ Sunday night, with Mrs. Ida Watkins at the piano. After prayer service and reading of scripture, came the offering, and then Weeden sang a beautiful selection in superb manner, in the presence of the largest audience which has yet attended the evangelistic meetings, main body and galleries being packed, with great numbers standing. Surely, the people of East Liverpool are awake in this battle for the right. After another prayer, Weeden sang a second solo, and the vast audience listened with rapt attention to the plea of the dying little girl that her father might meet her in heaven.

"The 27th of Matthew and 23d verse. 'What shall I do with Jesus, which is called the Christ?' It was a crisis in the life of Pilate; his last opportunity; his choice for heaven or hell; eternal joy or never-ending torment. God gives every man and woman ample opportunity to save their immortal souls; but there will come a day to every one, as to Pilate, when you will have your last chance. In the name of the Master, men and women of East Liverpool, let me plead with you to be very careful; you have the 'now' for yourself; but this night, ere you pass out of this rink, may be your last opportunity.

"What did this man Pilate do unto Jesus and unto himself? Pilate was dishonest. He knew that Jesus was innocent; he knew that Jesus was sent from God, and he called for a basin of water, that he might wash his hands, and thus be innocent of Christ's blood. He virtually said: 'I know that this is the Savior of the world, of Jew and Gentile; the son of the living God.' Pilate acted contrary to what he knew he should have done. You hold up your hands in horror at the deed of Pilate. And yet every man and woman in this rink tonight who rejects Christ, acts precisely as did Pilate; you are acting dishonestly towards yourselves. It's an awful thing to rob your neighbor; but, oh the awful feature of robbing yourself and your God—a soul purchased with the blood of Jesus, the Son of God.

"Column after column of the space in our daily papers is devoted to suicides. What causes these suicides? Let me tell you. It's the battle going on in the human breast, between conscience and free will, or moral power. Conscience lashes and stings a man and tells him to do right, compelling him to exercise his free will power; tells him to be honest and true and bow the knee to God. Man's free will power is stubborn and says: 'I will not yield, I believe that Jesus died to save my soul, but I refuse to surrender.' Then comes the awful struggle, the battle to the death between conscience and will power, and suicide is often the result.

"A Christian mother died in a poor house, and I assisted others in seeing to her burial. The husband was a German infidel. After the burial of the wife, the little daughter came to me and pleaded with me to come and see her father. I told the child I could do him no good, that he would not listen to me; but she pleaded the more, and I finally accompanied her and found the remains of her father in a rough box, one of those used to put a coffin in. He had come home from the funeral, secured some deadly poison, quick and awful in its action, came back to his home and cried out as he took the same, in the presence of his little girl: 'I can't stand it; oh, I can't stand it,' and so died, and the little daughter had come to me to have me say kind words to her in that awful hour.

"Men came here this afternoon, told me they knew I was right on this question, shook hands with me, but had not the moral courage to ask God to forgive them. Oh, men, how I pity you.

"A loving mother sent her boy to hear me talk about Jesus. He went home from the meeting, and answered

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., MONDAY, MARCH 16.

For President,
WILLIAM MCKINLEY,
Of Ohio.

DARE to do right.

LAST night's evangelistic meeting
 was a hummer. The rink was packed,
 and the overflow meetings were well
 attended.

DON'T ask anyone but God what you
 shall do when it comes to a question
 between the Master and yourself. He will give you an answer, just as sure
 as you live, move and have your be-
 ing. God is just as jealous of his word as he is of himself.

BOOMERANG.

Those Republicans who are manipulating affairs so that they may reach
 office by and through the votes of the Democracy, will ultimately have no
 influence with either party, but be left strictly out in the cold. The
 cunning politician is, as a rule, lacking in genuine brain power and intellect, and eventually over-reaches
 himself. Beware of the boomerang,
 oh ye political tricksters.

GOD'S INSPIRED WORD.

True manhood and true womanhood
 are obtained from the Bible. This gift comes from God, through his
 word, given for the guidance of men,
 women and children. This is plain,
 unadorned truth, as every Christian man and woman will admit,
 without argument. This being the case, every true man and woman
 should vote for the reading of the Bible to the children in the public schools. The sensible men and women
 of today desire that their children
 shall get all the good they can, and
 bar out all evil. It is every whit good.
 It is impossible for it to be otherwise
 than good. It is the gift of Almighty God, given to human kind for their guidance.

BIBLE BALLOTS.

The battle is on in the Republican
 ranks. In the First ward, O. C.
 Vodrey, E. A. Stevenson and William
 B. McCord are in favor of the Bible.
 first, last and all the time, with Nellis
 trying to straddle the question, but
 really in the ranks of the opponents
 of the blessed book of God. In the Second ward, Dr. W. T. Norris and B.
 F. Hodson are all right on the question. In the Third ward, John N.
 Taylor and Will L. Smith are the only
 candidates on the ticket. Mrs. Allison having been dropped for doing just
 what other candidates have done, voted
 against certain nominees of the party,
 when that party nominated undesirable persons. This move has been denominated sharp politics; the keenness thereof may be worn off by the
 friction of ballots, in the hands of
 men and women who will not permit
 such sharpness in matters pertaining to the sacred right of franchise. The Third ward nominees are opposed to
 the reading of the book of books, by
 the teachers to the pupils, but desire
 that the direct and absolute word of God shall be placed in the category of uninspired books—the creations of human authors. The requests of patriotic organizations and church
 societies have been treated with contempt by these two men, on this topic,
 and they should be taught a lesson in the battle of ballots. The contest in the Third ward will not be a political contest. It is a contest of Right against Wrong. A contest in which
 one side will fight under the banner
 of "The Bible," while the other will
 fling their banner to the breeze, and
 inscribed thereon shall be the words
 "No Bible." There can be no middle course; you must be for or against
 the Bible, and God will hold you PERSONALLY responsible for your
 ballot; you cannot shift the responsibility. Every lover of the Bible, as the word of God, Republican, Democrat or Prohibitionist, should cast his
 or her ballot for the candidates who
 will stand by that word, first, last and
 all the time. In the Fourth ward, E.

NO WOMAN SHOULD READ THIS

JOSEPH BROS.

J. Owens is one of the Republican nominees. He is solid on the question
 at issue and will make a first-class
 member of the board. Mrs. Calhoun
 is another of the Republican nominees, and she should be defeated. She is an estimable lady, but her record is
 not right on the issue now before the people. We have this from reliable authority, from witnesses who have
 the matter from Mrs. Calhoun's lips.
 The battle is on. You will not be responsible to any human power for the manner in which you cast your ballot
 on this issue. God will not be mocked.
 His power is infinitely greater than
 all powers combined. He alone will hold you responsible, and you shall answer to him at the great day of judgment.

"Perhaps you would not think so,
 out a very large proportion of diseases
 in New York comes from carelessness
 about catching cold," says Dr. Cyrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing
 and so common that very few people,
 unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay
 any attention to a cold. There are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in
 this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most
 sensible advice is, when you have one,
 get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Doctor
 Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent
 cure. Twenty-five and 50 cent bottles

A severe rheumatic pain in the left
 shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper,
 a well known druggist of Des Moines,
 Iowa, for over six months. At times
 the pain was so severe that he could not lift anything. With all he could do he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain balm. "I only made three applications of it,"
 he says, "and have since been free
 from all pain." He now recommends
 it to persons similarly afflicted. It is

LANG WILL BE RETIRED.

Request of the Ostracized Lieutenant
 Likely to Be Granted.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The army retirement board of the department of the east, which sat at Governor's island
 about a week ago by order of the secretary of war, to pass upon the physical condition of Lieutenant Clarence E.
 Lang of the Second artillery with a view
 to his retirement, will likely grant
 Lang's request. Lieutenant Lang violated army traditions by marrying the
 daughter of a common soldier an hour
 after his graduation from West Point in 1894.

"The truth of the matter," said an army friend of Lang's, "is that Lang
 is literally barred out of the army by the
 social ostracism that he and his wife
 have been forced to endure. He is a

LIEUTENANT LANG.

bright man, one of the best of his year
 at West Point, and until that fatal marriage, had a brilliant army future."

Lang's best man was Hospital Steward Lally. A few weeks after the marriage Lally was dismissed from the army. His discharge was attributed by his friends to the part he took in the Lang affair. Sergeant Kinkle, father
 of the girl, then found it agreeable to leave West Point. He wanted to get
 stationed in the east, so as to be near
 Mrs. Lang, who is his only child, but he was sent to Texas.

RUINED BY GAMBLING AND DRINK.

The Postmaster of Kansas City, Kansas,
 Embellishes and Suicides.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., March 16.—To
 escape arrest for embezzlement of government funds, Frank Mapes, postmaster for this city, has committed suicide in his own residence. He got away with about $9,200.

His manner of ending his life was sensational in the extreme. At breakfast he complained of being ill, and retired to his room. Soon afterward he had his wife send for three men who had been friends of long standing. When these men arrived at the house Mrs. Mapes met them at the door. No sooner had
 she swung open the door than a pistol
 shot rang through the house. Mrs.
 Mapes and the three men ran to the postmaster's bedroom. They found him in the agonies of death. He had blown out his brains and had died
 almost instantly. He was prominent in politics. The money was spent in gambling and drink.

FOR PEACE WITH MENELIK.

The Crispi Government Had Authorized
 the Evacuation of Several Towns.

ROME, March 16.—The Italian states
 that the Crispi ministry authorized General Baldissera to negotiate a peace with Menelik after the defeat of Adowa.
 The Mefisager says that General Bal-
 dissera, on leaving Rome, had authority
 to evacuate Cassala, Agordat and Adigrat.

The latest news from the front in Africa is that the main body of Der-
 vishes is advancing upon Cassala.

Elkins Favored in West Virginia.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 16.—
 From local indications it seems that Senator Elkins will have some support
 for the presidential nomination if he is a candidate. McKinley will probably be West Virginia's second choice, but El-
 kins will have the entire West Virginia
 delegation if he wants it, judging from
 the result of the district convention in
 this county.

After Keystone State Markets.

NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—The Alabama coal operators have effected a deal with the Southern railway to cover the immense coal market among the Mississippi sugar plantations south of Greenville heretofore occupied by the Pennsylvania operators. This trade takes about 1,500,000 tons annually, most of which has been shipped from Pittsburg
 by river.

Favor Women Delegates.

ATLANTON, Kan., March 16.—The Methodist Episcopal conference of Kansas in annual session here has selected delegates to the general conference at Cleveland and adopted a resolution
 favoring the admission of women as
 delegates to the general central conference.

A Leading Democrat Assigns.

ST. PAUL, March 16.—P. H. Kelly,
 one of the best-known merchants and
 leading Democrat politicians in the state, has made a personal assignment
 to J. F. Mayer of Mankato, Minn. Assets are said to be $140,000, and liabilities, $600,000.

Bi-metallists Make an Agreement.

BERLIN, March 16.—The German bi-
 metallists have made an agreement with
 the bimetalists in England, France and Austria to introduce identical motions,
 looking to use of both gold and silver
 as currency in their respective parliaments.

Made a Hot Fight.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., March 16.—
 Zeke Taylor, notorious character, has
 been arrested for stealing clothing from
 the Buehler House. He made desperate resistance and severely bit one of the officers before he could be landed.

A Chicago Ex-Official Arrested.

MOBILE, March 16.—William H. Madden, ex-chief clerk in the special assessment department of Chicago, who is on a visit to the south with his wife for the benefit of her health, has been arrested,
 charged with forgery.

Chinese Buy Old Rifles.

BERLIN, March 16.—The Chinese government has purchased 80,000 Bavarian army rifles of the type of 1884 for $1
 apiece.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., MONDAY, MARCH 16.

For President,
WILLIAM MCKINLEY,
Of Ohio.

DARE to do right.

LAST night's evangelistic meeting
was a hummer. The rink was packed,
and the overflow meetings were well
attended.

DON'T ask anyone but God what you
shall do when it comes to a question
between the Master and yourself. He
will give you an answer, just as sure
as you live, move and have your be-
ing. God is just as jealous of his word as he is of himself.

BOOMERANG.

Those Republicans who are manipulating affairs so that they may reach
office by and through the votes of the Democracy, will ultimately have no
influence with either party, but be
cunning politician is, as a rule, lacking in genuine brain power and intellect, and eventually over-reaches
himself. Beware of the boomerang,
oh ye political tricksters.

GOD'S INSPIRED WORD.

True manhood and true womanhood
are obtained from the Bible. This
gift comes from God, through his
word, given for the guidance of men,
women and children. This is plain,
unadulterated truth, as every Christian man and woman will admit,
without argument. This being the
case, every true man and woman
should vote for the reading of the Bible to the children in the public schools. The sensible men and women
of today desire that their children
shall get all the good they can, and
bar out all evil. It is every whit good.
It is impossible for it to be otherwise
than good. It is the gift of Almighty God, given to human kind for their
guidance.

BIBLE BALLOTS.

The battle is on in the Republican
ranks. In the First ward, O. C.
Vodrey, E. A. Stevenson and William
B. McCord are in favor of the Bible,
first, last and all the time, with Nellis
trying to straddle the question, but
really in the ranks of the opponents
of the blessed book of God. In the Second ward, Dr. W. T. Norris and B.
F. Hodson are all right on the question. In the Third ward, John N.
Taylor and Will L. Smith are the only
candidates on the ticket, Mrs. Allison
having been dropped for doing just
what other candidates have done, voted
against certain nominees of the party,
when that party nominated undesirable persons. This move has been denominated sharp politics; the keen-
ness thereof may be worn off by the
friction of ballots, in the hands of
men and women who will not permit
such sharpness in matters pertaining to the sacred right of franchise. The Third ward nominees are opposed to
the reading of the book of books, by
the teachers to the pupils, but desire
that the direct and absolute word of God shall be placed in the category of
uninspired books—the creations of
human authors. The requests of
patriotic organizations and church
societies have been treated with con-
tempt by these two men, on this topic,
and they should be taught a lesson in
the battle of ballots. The contest in the Third ward will not be a political
contest. It is a contest of Right
against Wrong. A contest in which
one side will fight under the banner
of "The Bible," while the other will
fling their banner to the breeze, and
inscribed thereon shall be the words
"No Bible." There can be no middle
course; you must be for or against
the Bible, and God will hold you PERSONALLY responsible for your
ballot; you cannot shift the responsibility. Every lover of the Bible, as
the word of God, Republican, Democrat or Prohibitionist, should cast his
or her ballot for the candidates who
will stand by that word, first, last and
all the time. In the Fourth ward, E.

NO WOMAN SHOULD READ THIS

JOSEPH BROS.

J. Owens is one of the Republican
nominees. He is solid on the question
at issue and will make a first-class
member of the board. Mrs. Calhoun
is another of the Republican nominees, and she should be defeated. She
is an estimable lady, but her record is
not right on the issue now before the people. We have this from reliable
authority, from witnesses who have
the matter from Mrs. Calhoun's lips.
The battle is on. You will not be responsible to any human power for the manner in which you cast your ballot
on this issue. God will not be mocked.
His power is infinitely greater than
all powers combined. He alone will
hold you responsible, and you shall
answer to him at the great day of judgment.

"Perhaps you would not think so,
out a very large proportion of diseases
in New York comes from carelessness
about catching cold," says Dr. Cyrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing
and so common that very few people,
unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay
any attention to a cold. There are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in
this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most
sensible advice is, when you have one,
get rid of it as soon as possible. By
all means do not neglect it." Doctor
Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the
lungs, aid expectoration, open the
secretions and soon effect a permanent

A severe rheumatic pain in the left
shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper,
a well known druggist of Des Moines,
Iowa, for over six months. At times
the pain was so severe that he could
not lift anything. With all he could
do he could not get rid of it until he
applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says, "and have since been free
from all pain." He now recommends
it to persons similarly afflicted. It is

LANG WILL BE RETIRED.

Request of the Ostracized Lieutenant
Likely to Be Granted.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The army retirement board of the department of the
east, which sat at Governor's island
about a week ago by order of the secretary of war, to pass upon the physical
condition of Lieutenant Clarence E.
Lang of the Second artillery with a view
to his retirement, will likely grant
Lang's request. Lieutenant Lang violated army traditions by marrying the
daughter of a common soldier an hour
after his graduation from West Point in 1894.

"The truth of the matter," said an
army friend of Lang's, "is that Lang
is literally barred out of the army by the
social ostracism that he and his wife
have been forced to endure. He is a

LIEUTENANT LANG.

bright man, one of the best of his year
at West Point, and until that fatal marriage, had a brilliant army future."
Lang's best man was Hospital Stew-
ard Lally. A few weeks after the marriage Lally was dismissed from the army. His discharge was attributed by
his friends to the part he took in the Lang affair. Sergeant Kinkle, father
of the girl, then found it agreeable to
leave West Point. He wanted to get
stationed in the east, so as to be near
Mrs. Lang, who is his only child, but
he was sent to Texas.

RUINED BY GAMBLING AND DRINK.
The Postmaster of Kansas City, Kansas,
Embezzles and Suicide.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., March 16.—To
escape arrest for embezzlement of government funds, Frank Mapes, post-
master for this city, has committed suicide in his own residence. He got away with about $5,300.

His manner of ending his life was
sensational in the extreme. At breakfast he complained of being ill, and retired to his room. Soon afterward he had his wife send for three men who had been friends of long standing. When these men arrived at the house Mrs. Mapes
met them at the door. No sooner had
she swung open the door than a pistol
shot rang through the house. Mrs.
Mapes and the three men ran to the postmaster's bedroom. They found him in the agonies of death. He had blown out his brains and had died
almost instantly. He was prominent in politics. The money was spent in gambling and drink.

FOR PEACE WITH MENELIK.

The Crispi Government Had Authorized
the Evacuation of Several Towns.

ROME, March 16.—The Italian states
that the Crispi ministry authorized General Baldissera to negotiate a peace with
Menelik after the defeat of Adowa.
The messenger says that General Bal-
dissera, on leaving Rome, had authority
to evacuate Cassala, Agordat and Adigrat.

The latest news from the front in Africa is that the main body of Der-
vishes is advancing upon Cassala.

Elkins Favored in West Virginia.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 16.—
From local indications it seems that
Senator Elkins will have some support
for the presidential nomination if he is
a candidate. McKinley will probably be West Virginia's second choice, but El-
kins will have the entire West Virginia
delegation if he wants it, judging from
the result of the district convention in
this county.

After Keystone State Markets.

NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—The Alabama coal operators have effected a deal
with the Southern railway to cover the
immense coal market among the Mississippi sugar plantations south of Green-
sylvania heretofore occupied by the Pennsylvania operators. This trade takes
about 1,500,000 tons annually, most of which has been shipped from Pittsburg
by river.

Favor Women Delegates.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 16.—The Methodist Episcopal conference of Kansas in annual session here has elected
delegates to the general conference at Cleveland and adopted a resolution
favoring the admission of women as
delegates to the general central conference.

A Leading Democrat Assigns.

ST. PAUL, March 16.—P. H. Kelly,
one of the best-known merchants and
leading Democrat politicians in the
state, has made a personal assignment
to J. F. Mayer of Mankato, Minn. Assets are said to be $140,000, and liabilities, $600,000.

Bimetallists Make an Agreement.

BERLIN, March 16.—The German bi-
metallists have made an agreement with
the bimetalists in England, France and
Austria to introduce identical motions,
looking to use of both gold and silver
as currency in their respective parlia-
ments.

Made a Hot Fight.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., March 16.—
Zeke Taylor, notorious character, has
been arrested for stealing clothing from
the Buehler House. He made desperate resistance and severely bit one of
the officers before he could be landed.

A Chicago Ex-Official Arrested.

MOBILE, March 16.—William H. Madden, ex-chief clerk in the special assas-sment department of Chicago, who is on a visit to the south with his wife for the
benefit of her health, has been arrested,
charged with forgery.

Chinese Buy Old Rifles.

BERLIN, March 16.—The Chinese government has purchased 80,000 Russian
army rifles of the type of 1894 for $1
million.

THE SUDAN CAMPAIGN

Of Far-reaching Importance to All Europe.

FRANCE AGAINST BRITAIN'S PLAN.

Declares the Condition of Affairs in the Sudan Warrants No Such Movement. England Trying to Regain Her Power Among the Great Nations.

(Copyrighted.)

LONDON, March 16.—Your correspondent is able to state, in connection with the reopened Egyptian question, that the British government consulted and obtained the approval of a majority of followers before deciding on the advance on Dongola.

This makes the new Sudan campaign of far-reaching political importance in its bearing upon Great Britain's relations with the European powers.

The disclosure of recent events of Great Britain's complete and friendless isolation in the community of nations has given a shock and a feeling of uneasiness to the responsible statesmanship of Great Britain has been frankly admitted by British statesmen themselves. That England's diplomacy has been busy with efforts to make some inroads into the universal hostile array of nations has been generally understood.

When the terms of the settlement of the dispute over the boundaries between the possessions on the Mekong in Indo-China of Great Britain and France was made known the world expressed its wonder at the substantial concessions made by Great Britain, and the opinion was generally held that Great Britain sought to secure an entente with France as a consideration for these concessions.

Many commentators professed to see confirmation of this opinion in the suggestion offered by the sultan a little later to Lord Salisbury that England should regularize the situation in Egypt. It was suggested that the sultan's suggestion was inspired by Great Britain itself in order to open up a course for the evacuation of Egypt, thus removing the principal cause of irritation between Great Britain and France.

The announcement of the new Sudan campaign is clear and convincing evidence that there is to be no rapprochement between Great Britain and France. If further evidence were needed of this, it was seen in the prolonged visit on Friday to the foreign office of Baron de Courcel, the French ambassador in London, and his subsequent departure in person for Paris to impart the result of his interview to the French cabinet.

Corroboration of France's opposition to the proposed Sudan campaign is found in a dispatch from Cairo, naming as the explicit grounds of her opposition that no movement in the Sudan exists warranting such a campaign, and that the Khalifa Abdullahi, the successor of the late Mahdi, Mohammed Ahmed and military chief under him in the former war, has lost all his authority and has withdrawn his loyal adherents from the Casala districts.

The advance upon Dongola was decided upon by the British government with a view to the favorable effect it would have toward replacing the confidence of the English people in the government and blunting out the enemies of Great Britain among the European nations.

It was also done with a view to the favorable effect it would have upon the Italian situation in Abyssinia, as was stated by The Times, the organ of the British cabinet, in connection with its announcement of the Sudan campaign. Almost simultaneously with this announcement came the news of the visit of Count Goluchowski, the Austro-Hungarian prime minister, to Berlin, and the statement that as a result, the dreadnought is to remain intact, and that the German government's irritable attitude toward Great Britain, as manifested over the Transvaal episode, has been mollified through the exertions of Count Goluchowski.

The question of the hour in European politics is whether Great Britain has thrown in her fortunes with the dreadnoughts against France and Russia. There is no doubt whatever that for several months there has been some sort of understanding between Great Britain and Italy, probably of a very indefinite character, with respect to joint action in the Sudan.

There is reason to believe that the plan for reconquering the Sudan is not confined to Great Britain and Italy. It has been often stated, and facts adduced bears out the statement, that the Congo Free State is also in this understanding. It is perfectly true that the Belgian foreign minister recently absolutely denied any knowledge of such plan, but then the Belgian government is not represented in the Congo State.

Moreover, for months past the British public has been watching with interest and curiosity, not unmixed with concern, the advance of a mysterious, but strong, force of Congolese troops to the reaches of the Upper Nile, on the extreme northeast border of the Sudan and the Free State. Nothing is exactly known of the intentions and objects of this force, but it is certain the state officials of Belgium have been recently sending great quantities of arms and ammunition to Africa, together with many officers.

Attempted Another Demonstration. BARCELONA, March 16.—After a concert Sunday night the bulk of the audience started to make a demonstration before the United States consulate. But gendarmes promptly broke their way and dispersed the crowd before they had reached the building. Several were injured in the scuffle.

The Suspected Bermuda Sails. NEW YORK, March 16.—The steamship Bermuda, recently seized by the federal government while attempting to leave this harbor on a supposed filibustering expedition to Cuba and afterward released, has sailed for Vera Cruz.

Routes the Cuban Insurgents. MADRID, March 16.—Advices from Havana say that Colonel Galvis has routed the insurgents under Maximo Gomez, killing 50. The Spanish columns, it is also reported, continue to press Macao rapidly.

THE PRESIDENT ON CUBA.

A Message to Congress on the Subject Expected Soon.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The indications are that the Cuban question and the Dupont election case will continue to claim the greater share of the attention of the senate during the present week. There is an understanding that in case it is made apparent that the Cuban matter can be speedily disposed of the managers for Mr. Dupont will not stand in the way.

Senator Sherman is exceedingly desirous of getting the Cuban resolutions out of the way at the earliest practicable time and will press consideration. The senators who are opposing the resolutions are, however, not inclined to fall in with this design and there is now no prospect of an immediate vote on the conference report. It is intimated that the president is likely to send a message to the senate on the Cuban question in response to Senator Hoar's resolution of inquiry, and if he should do so, it unquestionably will have influence either in expediting or retarding consideration of the question in the senate.

WE HAVE A BIG ARMY.

The United States Can Present 9,467,694 Men.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—According to a report on the organized militia of the United States, which has just been prepared by the war department, the United States, in case of need, can put 9,467,694 men in the field.

New York is far in the lead in the number of men enlisted in the national guard, its strength amounting to 13,901 officers and enlisted men. Pennsylvania is second, with 650,000; New York is fourth, with 560,000.

It is estimated in this publication that, in case of necessity, Illinois could place 852,625 men in the field; Pennsylvania comes next, with 771,874; and Ohio third, with 650,000; New York is fourth, with 560,000.

Opposes a Government Plant.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Commodore Hichborn, chief of the bureau of construction and repair of the navy department, before the senate committee on naval affairs on the advisability of erecting a government plant at Washington for the manufacture of armor plate, advised against the undertaking, saying that a plant, independent of the ground for a site, would cost about $2,000,000, and that it would be impossible to keep the works in operation all the time.

Wants to Fight A. P. A. Champion.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Representative Linton of Michigan, the leader of the A. P. A. sentiment in the house, received some days ago a letter from Captain Thomas S. Phelan of Kansas City, a well-known Irish agitator, challenging him to fight a duel at Bladensburg, owing to Mr. Linton's course in opposing the church school appropriations and the placing of the statue of Father Marquette in the capitol.

Indifferent Over Russian-Chinese Treaty. WASHINGTON, March 16.—The cable news from Peking confirming the report of a secret treaty between Russia and China, is regarded with indifference at the Japanese legation in this city, where it was said that the building of railroads through Manchuria with Russian capital was a matter of no special interest in Japan.

Lament Opposed to Lieutenant General. WASHINGTON, March 16.—Secretary Lamont has written a letter to Senator Hawley, chairman of the senate committee on military affairs, advising against the revival of the rank of lieutenant general in the army at the present time. TROOPS CALLED OUT.

Militia in Control at Kentucky's State House.

GOV. BRADLEY ISSUES ORDERS.

He Tells the Sheriff to Keep All People Out of the Building, Except Senator Blackburn and Legislative Members. Trouble Likely to Occur.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 16.—Governor Bradley has ordered out all three of the regiments of the Kentucky State Guards. The McCrory Guards were ordered out at 9:45 last night and took possession of the state house. The First regiment of Louisville arrived here on a special train at 2 a. m. The state capitol was very strongly guarded when the legislature met today.

Governor Bradley has issued his first official order commanding the sheriff of this county to preserve order in the capitol, and if necessary, to enter the joint assembly at the request of the president.

The order commands the sheriff hereafter to clear the rotunda and keep persons out of it and out of the cloak rooms of the senate and the house while the joint assembly is in session, except Senator Blackburn, members of the assembly and constitutional officers. It also orders the sheriff to not let any persons enter either house except members and such other persons as the president of the senate and speaker of the house may indicate.

A resolution introduced in the senate today, to allow only members and constitutional officers on the floor, will be adopted today. As the rules of the senate are the rules of the joint assembly, this would exclude James and Walter, the expelled members, from the floor. This seems likely to cause trouble today. For this reason the governor called out the troops.

For days friends of both parties, men of desperate character, have been in the cloak rooms and around the lobbies intimidating members and others. The governor evidently intends to put a stop to it.

Democrats are threatening to impeach Governor Bradley for his orders to the sheriff. Sergeant-at-arms Somers says he will have as his assistants in the joint assembly today Chinn, Williams and Lillard.

Excitement is very high. Poor, the Populist, has pledged the Republicans to vote for Boyle today, and if he does Boyle is likely to be elected. The governor had been informed that the Blackburn leaders had been preparing to take forcible possession of the state house today. Threats were made that the senate would arrest the governor today for usurpation of authority in giving the instructions he gave to the sheriff of Franklin county to clear the corridors and cloak rooms. All the trains brought in reinforcements for the men bent on mischief. It was only at the last moment, when the presence of these crowds presaged serious danger, that the governor yielded to repeated requests of orderly citizens of both parties and called out the militia.

GRANT AND THE CUBANS.

He Thanked Secretary Fish For Preventing His Recognizing Them.

ALBANY, March 16.—During the debate on the Cuban question in the United States senate many allusions were made, both by Senator Sherman and Senator Hill, as to the attitude of President Grant and the then secretary of state, Hamilton Fish. Senator Sherman declared that there was a conflict of opinion over Cuban affairs between the president and his secretary of state. The speaker of the assembly, Hamilton Fish, son of the late secretary, is in possession of information upon this subject contained in the diaries kept by his father that is of great importance in the controversy.

On the authority of these diaries it is shown that President Grant had at one time, under the circumstances of pending negotiations, been inclined to recognize the belligerency of Cuba; but on June 13, 1870, the opinion of the president and the cabinet was unanimous that there were no facts to justify the declaration of belligerency, and that the satisfaction of the president with the Cuban policy of his administration, and its effects upon the country and the Republican party, found expression a few weeks later in thanks to the secretary of state for whatever share in it may have been due to his wisdom and judgment.

OPELOUSAS, La., March 16.—The long expected clash between citizens and regulators occurred when the regulators returned from Ville Platte, where they had unmercifully beaten Mark Lazarro, a prominent citizen of that town.

Three officers encountered the regulators, consisting of the Roy brothers and an unknown man. The latter opened fire on the officers and a general fusillade followed, and when the smoke cleared away it was found that the three Roy brothers had been wounded, one of them dangerously, while the unknown regulators and the officers escaped unhurt.

THE SOUDAN CAMPAIGN

Of Far-reaching Importance to All Europe.

FRANCE AGAINST BRITAIN'S PLAN.

Declares the Condition of Affairs in the Sudan Warrants No Such Movement. England Trying to Regain Her Power Among the Great Nations.

(Copyrighted.)
LONDON, March 16.—Your correspondent is able to state, in connection with the reopened Egyptian question, that the British government consulted and obtained the approval of a majority of followers before deciding on the advance on Dongola.

This makes the new Sudan campaign of far-reaching political importance in its bearing upon Great Britain's relations with the European powers.

The disclosure of recent events of Great Britain's complete and friendless isolation in the community of nations has given a shock and a feeling of uneasiness to the responsible statesmanship of Great Britain has been frankly admitted by British statesmen themselves. That England's diplomacy has been busy with efforts to make some inroads into the universal hostile array of nations has been generally understood.

When the terms of the settlement of the dispute over the boundaries between the possessions on the Mekong in Indo-China of Great Britain and France was made known the world expressed its wonder at the substantial concessions made by Great Britain, and the opinion was generally held that Great Britain sought to secure an entente with France as a consideration for these concessions.

Many commentators professed to see confirmation of this opinion in the suggestion offered by the sultan a little later to Lord Salisbury that England should regularize the situation in Egypt. It was suggested that the sultan's suggestion was inspired by Great Britain itself in order to open up a course for the evacuation of Egypt, thus removing the principal cause of irritation between Great Britain and France.

The announcement of the new Sudan campaign is clear and convincing evidence that there is to be no rapprochement between Great Britain and France. If further evidence were needed of this, it was seen in the prolonged visit on Friday to the foreign office of Baron de Courcel, the French ambassador in London, and his subsequent departure in person for Paris to impart the result of his interview to the French cabinet.

Corroboration of France's opposition to the proposed Sudan campaign is found in a dispatch from Cairo, naming as the explicit grounds of her opposition that no movement in the Sudan exists warranting such a campaign and that the Khalifa Abdullahi, the successor of the late Mahdi, Mohammed Ahmed and military chief under him in the former war, has lost all his authority and has withdrawn his loyal adherents from the Casala districts.

The advance upon Dongola was decided upon by the British government with a view to the favorable effect it would have toward replacing the confidence of the English people in the government and blinding out the enemies of Great Britain among the European nations.

It was also done with a view to the favorable effect it would have upon the Italian situation in Abyssinia, as was stated by The Times, the organ of the British cabinet, in connection with its announcement of the Sudan campaign. Almost simultaneously with this announcement came the news of the visit of Count Goluchowski, the Austro-Hungarian prime minister, to Berlin, and the statement, that as a result, the dreadnought to remain intact and that the German government's irritable attitude toward Great Britain, as manifested over the Transvaal episode, has been mollified through the exertions of Count Goluchowski.

The question of the hour in European politics is whether Great Britain has thrown in her fortunes with the dreadnought as against France and Russia. There is no doubt whatever that for several months there has been some sort of understanding between Great Britain and Italy, probably of a very indefinite character, with respect to joint action in the Sudan.

There is reason to believe that the plan for reconquering the Sudan is not confined to Great Britain and Italy. It has been often stated, and facts adduced bears out the statement, that the Congo Free State is also in this understanding. It is perfectly true that the Belgian foreign minister recently absolutely denied any knowledge of such plan, but then the Belgian government is not represented in the Congo State.

Moreover, for months past the British public has been watching with interest and curiosity, not unmixed with concern, the advance of a mysterious, but strong, force of Congolese troops to the reaches of the Upper Nile on the extreme northeast border of the Sudan and the Free State. Nothing is exactly known of the intentions and objects of this force, but it is certain the state officials of Belgium have been recently sending great quantities of arms and ammunition to Africa, together with many officers.

THE PRESIDENT ON CUBA.

A Message to Congress on the Subject Expected Soon.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The indications are that the Cuban question and the Dupont election case will continue to claim the greater share of the attention of the senate during the present week. There is an understanding that in case it is made apparent that the Cuban matter can be speedily disposed of the managers for Mr. Dupont will not stand in the way.

Senator Sherman is exceedingly desirous of getting the Cuban resolutions out of the way at the earliest practicable time and will press consideration. The senators who are opposing the resolutions are, however, not inclined to fall in with this design and there is now no prospect of an immediate vote on the conference report. It is intimated that the president is likely to send a message to the senate on the Cuban question in response to Senator Hoar's resolution of inquiry, and if he should do so, it unquestionably will have influence either in expediting or retarding consideration of the question in the senate.

WE HAVE A BIG ARMY.

The United States Can Present 9,467,694 Men.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—According to a report on the organized militia of the United States, which has just been prepared by the war department, the United States, in case of need, can put 9,467,694 men in the field.

It is estimated in this publication that, in case of necessity, Illinois could place 852,625 men in the field; Pennsylvania comes next, with 771,874, and Ohio third, with 650,000; New York is fourth, with 560,000.

Opposes a Government Plant.

TROOPS CALLED OUT.

Militia In Control at Kentucky's State House.

GOV. BRADLEY ISSUES ORDERS.

He Tells the Sheriff to Keep All People Out of the Building, Except Senator Blackburn and Legislative Members. Trouble Likely to Occur.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 16.—Governor Bradley has ordered out all three of the regiments of the Kentucky State Guards. The McCleary Guards were ordered out at 9:45 last night and took possession of the state house. The First regiment of Louisville arrived here on a special train at 2 a. m. The state capitol was very strongly guarded when the legislature met today.

Governor Bradley has issued his first official order commanding the sheriff of this country to preserve order in the capitol, and if necessary, to enter the joint assembly at the request of the president.

The order commands the sheriff hereafter to clear the rotunda and keep persons out of it and out of the cloak rooms of the senate and the house while the joint assembly is in session, except Senator Blackburn, members of the assembly and constitutional officers. It also orders the sheriff to not let any persons enter either house except members and such other persons as the president of the senate and speaker of the house may indicate.

A resolution introduced in the senate today, to allow only members and constitutional officers on the floor, will be adopted today. As the rules of the senate are the rules of the joint assembly, the expelled members, James and Walter, the expelled members from the floor. This seems likely to cause trouble today. For this reason the governor called out the troops.

For days friends of both parties, men of desperate character, have been in the cloak rooms and around the lobbies intimating members and others. The governor evidently intends to put a stop to it.

Democrats are threatening to impeach Governor Bradley for his orders to the sheriff. Sergeant-at-arms Somers says he will have as his assistants in the joint assembly today Chinn, Williams and Lillard.

Excitement is very high. Poor, the Populist, has pledged the Republicans to vote for Boyle today, and if he does Boyle is likely to be elected.

The governor had been informed that the Blackburn leaders had been preparing to take forcible possession of the state house today. Threats were made that the senate would arrest the governor today for usurpation of authority in giving the instructions he gave to the sheriff of Franklin county to clear the corridors and cloak rooms. All the trains brought in reinforcements for the men bent on mischief. It was only at the last moment, when the presence of these crowds presaged serious danger, that the governor yielded to repeated requests of orderly citizens of both parties and called out the militia.

GRANT AND THE CUBANS.

He Thanked Secretary Fish For Preventing His Recognizing Them.

ALBANY, March 16.—During the debate on the Cuban question in the United States senate many allusions were made, both by Senator Sherman and Senator Hill, as to the attitude of President Grant and the then secretary of state, Hamilton Fish. Senator Sherman declared that there was a conflict of opinion over Cuban affairs between the president and his secretary of state. The speaker of the assembly, Hamilton Fish, son of the late secretary, is in possession of information upon this subject contained in the diaries kept by his father that is of great importance in the controversy.

On the authority of these diaries it is shown that President Grant had at one time, under the circumstances of pending negotiations, been inclined to recognize the belligerency of Cuba; but on June 13, 1870, the opinion of the president and the cabinet was unanimous that there were no facts to justify the declaration of belligerency, and that the satisfaction of the president with the Cuban policy of his administration, and its effects upon the country and the Republican party, found expression a few weeks later in thanks to the secretary of state for whatever share in it may have been due to his wisdom and judgment.

A Desperate Fight Between Outlaws and Louisiana Officers.

OPELOUSAS, La., March 16.—The long expected clash between citizens and regulators occurred when the regulators returned from Ville Platte, where they had unmercifully beaten Mark Lazaro, a prominent citizen of that town.

Three officers encountered the regulators, consisting of the Roy brothers and an unknown man. The latter opened fire on the officers and a general fusillade followed, and when the smoke cleared away it was found that the three Rovers had been wounded, one of them dangerously, while the unknown regulators and the officers escaped unhurt.

The volunteers will be governed by a military constitution, with Mr. and Mrs. Booth as joint presidents. The local branches will be called posts and the various grades of officers will have rank and titles like those of the American army.

He has furnished an official description of the standard of his new movement. He said that the standard would be distinctly American. It will consist of a white flag, emblematical of purity. In the center will be a large blue star, typical of hope; in the middle of this a white cross, emblematical of sacrifice for others.

In the corner of the standard, or flag, nearest the top of the staff, will be 43 white stars, in a field of blue, representing the states of the union. Over the central large blue star will read the motto, "The Lord My Banner," and underneath the words designating the number of the post to which the standard is presented. It is to be carried by a color-sergeant, at the head of the parade, along with the national flag.

her kind query with: 'No. I didn't like him before I heard him; and I like him less, now; and I don't like you, mother, as well as I did; and I don't like you, sis; you're too smart for anything; you got me to go and hear him, and I want you to leave me alone after this; no, I don't want anything to eat. I want to be left alone,' and he flung himself out of the room and went to his bedroom. His dear mother went to his room later, anxious about her son, and found him lying face downward upon the floor, sobbing as if his heart would break; and he replied to her loving, motherly pleadings with: 'Oh, mother, dear, I've been dishonest. I've been a thief. I've been robbing you and robbing God. Oh, mother, pray for your son. I want this matter settled, and I want you to help me with your prayers.' Men, God always answers honest prayers.

"Pilate was a mean coward, men, and he has lots of followers in East Liverpool, those who are trying to throw aside personal responsibility and place it upon the shoulders of others. Pilate cast aside all true manhood and acted the part of the sneak, merely to gratify blood-thirsty men, saying: 'I'll follow your will. I'll abide by your decision.' Pilate did just what every man and woman here present is doing when they reject Christ.

"At one of our meetings a beautiful young lady was under conviction, but would not ask God's forgiveness because her lover was an infidel, and she was afraid she would lose him. I talked to the fellow, and he gloried in being called an infidel, told me that my talk was all bosh, and that he intended taking his affianced complete tour of balls and dances, and that he'd have nothing to do with her if she became a Christian, and this poor nunny of a girl married that fellow, and a short time afterward she wrote a letter to her mother, stating that her heart was broken, her life ruined, and begging to be taken back home again.

In this link the other night there was a young man under deep conviction of sin. His lady friend said to him: 'If you embrace Christianity, we will be compelled to give up all our dances and balls; but I'm willing, and if you decide for Christ, I'll stand by you.' That was noble. I do not know as to their acceptance, but they ought to make the decision at once.

"A married lady waited a long time for her husband, who kept her from deciding for God; but she finally came to me and said: 'Oh, Mr. Schiverea, I cannot wait longer. The matter is too vital. I wanted my husband to come to Christ with me; but I cannot longer risk my soul.' That's the way to settle the matter, friends.

"You'll do with Jesus just as Pilate did, men. You'll do as you please. You'll be for or against Christ. God can't save you against your will. If he did, you'd be nothing more than an engine; you'd lose your free will. If you decide for Jesus, then the Savior and every angel in heaven will be on your side and take care of you. Be a manly man. Dead wood and dead fish float with the stream. It takes a live fish to go up a stream. Battle against the current of sin, men, and God will give you the victory.

"Pilate did with Jesus what Jesus will do with Pilate—rejected him. Pilate rejected Jesus upon earth, Jesus will reject Pilate in heaven. What will you do with Jesus, men and women of East Liverpool? Will you accept or reject the Son of God? My prayer, my earnest pleading, is that you will accept Jesus."

The great audience then bowed heads in prayer, while Weeden sang 'What will you do with Jesus.' Many came forward and asked for prayers. Come early tonight. You will have a warm welcome.

THE RESULT

The other persons nominated are as follows: Council—Frank McCord, F. P. Moore and Levi Stackhouse. Treasurer—M. J. Child. Clerk—C. W. Pritchard. Cemetery Trustee—B. S. Young. Water Works Trustee—Robert G. Eells. Marshal—D. H. Eells. School Board—S. J. Firestone and W. J. Hamilton.

A marriage license was issued to William Hines and Miss Etta Lutton.

The Pot is Boiling.

The political pot has commenced to boil in dead earnest. Candidates are hustling now that the critical point is about to be reached. It is a fact worthy of note that the present city campaign has been conducted with out any apparent mudslinging. The true merits of the aspirants for office is the issue that the battle is being fought on. The main interest centers on the mayoralty and marshalship contests.

STEELE WILL BE IN IT.

Word Was Received From Him This Morning.

A letter was received this morning by Director Morris from "Sandy" Steele, who is at present attending school at Adrian, Mich., stating that he would be here in the fall and take part in the state pentathlon contest, to be given next September. Steele will be a great help to the team that will go from this city to the contest, as he is one of the fastest sprinters in the state and holds the all round athlete championship of his college. The boys here will start to practice as soon as the weather opens up.

Sporting Notes.

The Pittsburg Commercial Gazette, of Saturday, in naming the strongest pitchers of the league, names Mercer among the list.

"Toadix" Carey has as yet received no word from Syracuse, although he wrote to them several days ago.

The Shamrocks have organized and will go into the field with a much stronger team than they had last year.

The camp ground Tombstones are already talking of organization, and will have a team to represent the campground superior to any ever at that place. Most of their games will be played on the home grounds.

Still Pending.

Negotiations for the George building, by the Young Men's Christian association, are still pending, and the prospects are that it will be secured, although nothing definite in the matter has been done as yet. It is thought that within the next few weeks the matter will be settled one way or another.

Were Too Late.

A couple of young men of this city took a notion that they would go to the show after the revival services were out Saturday night, and accordingly hid themselves to Sixth street. When they got there they went up stairs, and to their amazement found that the play was over, and the people had gone home.

Services at Sebrings.

The noon hour services of Evangelist Schiverea were held at Sebrings' pottery today. The evangelist talked to the men in his usually convincing manner, and was listened to with rapt attention by those present. Services will be held to-morrow at the Thomas pottery, seventh street.

On the Decrease.

Typhoid fever is on the decrease in the city, as there has not been near so many cases reported so far this month as there were up to the same time last month. Much credit is due to the health authorities for their efficient work in keeping this disease down.

Changed the Place.

The voting place in the second precinct, First ward, has been changed from Frank Dickey's livery stable to Robert Hall's office, on Broadway. This change is made because there is not enough room at the former place.

Funeral Today.

The funeral of the three-months-old child of Charles Robinson, that was found dead in bed Saturday, took place today at 1 o'clock. Reverend Whitehead officiating. Interment was made at Long Run cemetery.

Report Untrue.

A report is being circulated that the Dresden pottery would close down for an indefinite length of time. The office of the firm deny that there is any truth in the rumor.

Severed His Connection.

Frank T. Searight has severed his connection with a down town daily, and hereafter, we understand, he will act in the capacity of business manager on the Unionist.

Practiced Saturday.

Some of the members of the Rover football team were at the West End park on Saturday getting in shape for their game with the Cleveland team on Saturday week.

Shut Down.

The glassworks were shut down again today, on account of a shortage of gas. The glass people have been greatly inconvenienced of late on this account.

A Blind Musician.

A blind musician was seen on the streets this afternoon. The man had a rich, musical voice, and collected many stray coppers during his travels.

Card of Thanks.

Mrs. Coulson and family wish to express their sincere thanks to friends for their kindnesses during their recent bereavement.

WELLSVILLE NOMINATION.

The Republicans Nominate Candidates for Municipal Offices.

The nomination of the Republican ticket in Wellsville on Saturday was spirited. F. W. Silvers was the nominee for mayor, polling over 100 more votes than Sinclair, who was out for the office a second time. For marshal, J. T. Warren was the successful man among six aspirants for the office. John W. Duncan followed close in his wake, a good second. W. J. Lones as solicitor had no opposition and his election is a foregone conclusion. For treasurer, T. R. Andrews received 509 votes to 385 registered against the name of W. G. Stewart. N. Champney beat James A. McFarland out for water works trustee. H. Michaels had no opposition for cemetery trustee. For street commissioner, H. A. Herbert was the successful candidate. Four aspirants to this office. John C. Davis, without opposition, was nominated constable. On the board of education there were three members to be chosen, Mrs. A. G. McKenzie, Samuel Stevenson and P. H. White being the nominees selected from five who wanted to be on the board. The nomination was the hottest that has taken place in the sister city for a number of years, a great deal of interest being centered on the mayoralty and marshalship contests.

THREE PASSED AWAY.

Consumption and Typhoid Fever Were the Causes.

Allison Fowler, of Spring street, died this morning at his late residence after an attack of typhoid fever. Deceased was 25 years of age and had only been ill with the disease two weeks, and his death was a surprise. A wife is left to mourn his demise. The funeral will take place Wednesday. Interment in Spring Grove cemetery.

Harry Boyer, aged 44 years, died at the residence of his brother-in-law, John Skelton, of California Hollow, Saturday night after a lengthy illness with consumption. The funeral will occur from deceased's late residence tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial in Riverview cemetery.

Miss Ollie Allison, daughter of Samuel B. Allison, of Chester, died at her father's home yesterday afternoon. The young lady had been ill with lung trouble for some time and was recovering, when she was attacked with typhoid fever, which finally resulted in her death. Funeral services will be held at her late residence on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Reverends Lee and Taggart officiating. Interment will be made at Flats cemetery.

THE LAST WEEK.

There Are Only Five More Days in Which to Work.

The last week of the campaign for nominations on the Republican ticket for municipal offices is at hand, and the candidates are filling their pockets with cards and going to work with more vim and hustle than they have yet shown. The intention of every candidate interviewed is to cover the entire city again in this short space of time, and it is probable that as many more cards will be put out this week as have been used in the past six weeks of the struggle. The campaign has been one of the longest ever known in the history of the city, and so far has been almost a perfectly clean one.

SMALL BOYS FIGHT.

A Fistic Encounter on Sixth Street Yesterday.

Two boys, neither of whom is over 12 years of age, engaged in a rough and tumble fight on Sixth street yesterday morning. The lads had an imaginary grievance, and went at each other like two professional pugilists. They were separated by a bystander and told to go home, but went down street a few feet, and pitched into each other. This time they were let go for almost five minutes to see which one would cry enough, but it began to look as though they would fight all day, and they were again separated and marched off in different directions by two bystanders.

ESTABLISH MORE LODGES.

The Stationary Engineers to Organize Branch Lodges.

The stationary engineers have met with such unprecedented success since the organization of the lodge here that a strong effort to establish branch lodges throughout the entire county district will be made. Funds are now being raised to accomplish this purpose. At their meeting tomorrow night more new members will be taken in, which will swell the membership to 53.

SUCCESSFUL SURGERY.

Dr. O. P. Andrews Performs a Difficult Operation.

Thomas W. Morris, editor of the NEWS REVIEW, has been suffering very keenly for some time past, with acute pains in his left leg, and the attending physician, Dr. O. P. Andrews, finally decided that relief could only be obtained through the use of the knife, in order to remove

pus which he believed was causing the trouble. The operation was successfully performed yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, and the leg was found to be in a very bad condition, very much worse than the physician had anticipated. The patient is now resting much easier, although quite weak. Dr. Andrews says that Mr. Morris will not be fit for active duty for some time to come, and has ordered that he shall take an unlimited vacation.

FARMERS DECEIVE

Grocers in Their Dealings With Them in Selling Topped Barrels of Apples.

A great deal of complaint is made by the grocers of the city against unprincipled farmers who practice deception in their dealings with them. A prominent grocer said that out of the majority of apples that he had purchased during the season, that almost every barrel was topped at both ends, that is, a few good apples were placed on top to deceive and the rest were made up of an inferior grade. Apparently the same deception has been carried out on a number of other grocers and the question of petitioning the legislature to enact some law, making it punishable with fine and imprisonment any such misrepresentation, is being talked of.

TO NEW FIELDS.

Fred H. Bostwick Goes to Denver Tomorrow.

Mr. Fred H. Bostwick, for some time past the genial and accommodating manager of the Ceramic Light company, of this city, leaves tomorrow for Denver, where he has accepted a position as manager of the sales department of the Hendrie and Bolthoff manufacturing company of that city. Mrs. Bostwick will accompany him. Mr. and Mrs. Bostwick made many warm friends during their stay in this city, who will learn with regret that they are about to leave, but at the same time will wish them the greatest of success in their new home.

NEAR DEATH'S DOOR

And Sadly Afflicted by the Terrible Ravages of a Dread Disease.

Mary, the little daughter of J. W. Hunter, of Fourth street, is very low with typhoid fever. The little one is grievously affected by the ravages of the disease. Already she has lost her eyesight, and her sense of hearing is about gone; truly a sad condition to be in. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved parents.

Will Meet Tomorrow Night.

The street committee will meet tomorrow night to again take up the subject of the vehicle ordinance. It is probable that a new ordinance will be framed, leaving out a great many objectionable features that were in the one that was first presented to council. In a conversation with one of the members of the committee this morning he stated that he would be in favor of a sliding scale. The new ordinance will be presented to council at its next meeting.

To Locate in Missouri.

T. S. McCready, wife and son Ralph, left on the Virginia Saturday night, bound for Warrensburg, Mo. They will travel as far as St. Louis by boat, and then journey the remainder of the distance by rail. Mrs. McCready has been in declining health for several years, and a change of climate, it is thought, will prove beneficial to her. Mr. McCready has not decided what business to embark in out there.

A False Alarm.

A stove became clogged and filled with smoke in the rooms occupied by J. T. Roberts and family, in the upper story of the 14th block, this morning. Someone sent in an alarm and the department responded and found upon arrival that there was no fire. The bell at city hall is out of order, and only sounded once when the alarm was sent in.

Eighth Anniversary.

A large audience attended the eighth anniversary of the United Presbyterian church in East End last night. Reverend Greene reviewed the progress of the church since its inception. From a mere handful of members the church has increased to a large congregation, and is now in a prosperous condition.

Died This Morning.

The 18-months-old son of Harry Lounds, of Wellsville, died this morning. The funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. Lounds has many friends in this city, who will be pained to hear of his bereavement.

Notice.

her kind query with: "No. I didn't like him before I heard him; and I like him less, now; and I don't like you, mother, as well as I did; and I don't like you, sis; you're too smart for anything; you got me to go and hear him, and I want you to leave me alone after this; no, I don't want anything to eat. I want to be left alone," and he flung himself out of the room and went to his bedchamber. His dear mother went to his room later, anxious about her son, and found him lying face downward upon the floor, sobbing as if his heart would break, and he replied to her loving, motherly pleadings with: "Oh, mother, dear, I've been dishonest. I've been a thief. I've been robbing you and robbing God. Oh, mother, pray for your son. I want this matter settled, and I want you to help me with your prayers." Men, God always answers honest prayers.

"Pilate was a mean coward, men, and he has lots of followers in East Liverpool, those who are trying to throw aside personal responsibility and place it upon the shoulders of others. Pilate cast aside all true manhood and acted the part of the sneak, merely to gratify bloodthirsty men, saying: 'I'll follow your will. I'll abide by your decision.' Pilate did just what every man and woman here present is doing when they reject Christ.

"At one of our meetings a beautiful young lady was under conviction, but would not ask God's forgiveness because her lover was an infidel, and she was afraid she would lose him. I talked to the fellow, and he gloried in being called an infidel, told me that my talk was all bosh, and that he intended taking his affianced complete tour of balls and dances, and that he'd have nothing to do with her if she became a Christian, and this poor thing of a girl married that fellow, and a short time afterward she wrote a letter to her mother, stating that her heart was broken, her life ruined, and begging to be taken back home again.

In this rink the other night there was a young man under deep conviction of sin. His lady friend said to him: 'If you embrace Christianity, we will be compelled to give up all our dances and balls; but I'm willing, and if you decide for Christ, I'll stand by you.' That was noble. I do not know as to their acceptance, but they ought to make the decision at once.

"A married lady waited a long time for her husband, who kept her from deciding for God; but she finally came to me and said: 'Oh, Mr. Schiverea, I cannot wait longer. The matter is too vital. I wanted my husband to come to Christ with me; but I cannot longer risk my soul.' That's the way to settle the matter, friends.

"You'll do with Jesus just as Pilate did, men. You'll do as you please. You'll be for or against Christ. God can't save you against your will. If he did, you'd be nothing more than an engine; you'd lose your free will. If you decide for Jesus, then the Savior and every angel in heaven will be on your side and take care of you. Be a manly man. Dead wood and dead fish float with the stream. It takes a live fish to go up a stream. Battle against the current of sin, men, and God will give you the victory.

"Pilate did with Jesus what Jesus will do with Pilate—rejected him. Pilate rejected Jesus upon earth, Jesus will reject Pilate in heaven. What will you do with Jesus, men and women of East Liverpool? Will you accept or reject the Son of God? My prayer, my earnest pleading, is that you will accept Jesus."

The great audience then bowed heads in prayer, while Weeden sang 'What will you do with Jesus.' Many came forward and asked for prayers.

Come early tonight. You will have a warm welcome.

THE RESULT

Of the Primary Election at Lisbon, Court News.

Special to NEWS REVIEW.
LISBON, March 16.—Porter Scott has sued William Nell to recover $564 due on five promissory notes. The notes have been given at different times during the past twenty years. Both parties to the suit are residents of this place.

The Republican primary election, which was held in this place on Saturday last, was one of the hottest contests ever held here, the principal fight being on Mayor, which resulted in the nomination of John Morrison by 49 votes over Ross W. Firestone.

The other persons nominated are as follows: Council—Frank McCord, F. P. Moore and Levi Stackhouse. Treasurer—M. J. Child. Clerk—C. W. Pritchard. Cemetery Trustee—B. S. Young. Water Works Trustee—Robert G. Eells. Marshal—D. H. Eells. School Board—S. J. Firestone and W. J. Hamilton.

A marriage license was issued to William Hines and Miss Etta Lutton.

The Pot is Boiling.

The political pot has commenced to boil in dead earnest. Candidates are hustling now that the critical point is about to be reached. It is a fact worthy of note that the present city campaign has been conducted without any apparent mudslinging. The true merits of the aspirants for office is the issue that the battle is being fought on. The main interest centers on the mayoralty and marshalship contests.

STEELE WILL BE IN IT.

Word Was Received From Him This Morning.

A letter was received this morning by Director Morris from "Sandy" Steele, who is at present attending school at Adrian, Mich., stating that he would be here in the fall and take part in the state pentathlon contest, to be given next September. Steele will be a great help to the team that will go from this city to the contest, as he is one of the fastest sprinters in the state and holds the all round athlete championship of his college. The boys here will start to practice as soon as the weather opens up.

Sporting Notes.

The Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette, of Saturday, in naming the strongest pitchers of the league, names Mercer among the list.

"Toadix" Carey has as yet received no word from Syracuse, although he wrote to them several days ago.

The Shamrocks have organized and will go into the field with a much stronger team than they had last year.

The camp ground Tombstones are already talking of organization, and will have a team to represent the camp ground superior to any ever at that place. Most of their games will be played on the home grounds.

Still Pending.

Negotiations for the George building, by the Young Men's Christian association, are still pending, and the prospects are that it will be secured, although nothing definite in the matter has been done, as yet. It is thought that within the next few weeks the matter will be settled one way or another.

Were Too Late.

A couple of young men of this city took a notion that they would go to the show after the revival services were out Saturday night, and accordingly hied themselves to Sixth street. When they got there they went up stairs, and to their amazement found that the play was over, and the people had gone home.

Services at Sebring.

The noon hour services of Evangelist Schiverea were held at Sebring's pottery today. The evangelist talked to the men in his usually convincing manner, and was listened to with rapt attention by those present. Services will be held to-morrow at the Thomas pottery, seventh street.

On the Decrease.

Typhoid fever is on the decrease in the city, as there has not been near so many cases reported so far this month as there were up to the same time last month. Much credit is due to the health authorities for their efficient work in keeping this disease down.

Changed the Place.

The voting place in the second precinct, First ward, has been changed from Frank Dickey's livery stable to Robert Hall's office, on Broadway. This change is made because there is not enough room at the former place.

Funeral Today.

The funeral of the three-months-old child of Charles Robinson, that was found dead in bed Saturday, took place today at 1 o'clock. Reverend Whitehead officiating. Interment was made at Long Run cemetery.

Report Untrue.

A report is being circulated that the Dresden pottery would close down for an indefinite length of time. The office of the firm deny that there is any truth in the rumor.

Severed His Connection.

Frank T. Searight has severed his connection with a down town daily, and hereafter, we understand, he will act in the capacity of business manager on the Unionist.

Practiced Saturday.

Some of the members of the Rover football team were at the West End park on Saturday getting in shape for their game with the Cleveland team on Saturday week.

Shot Down.

The glassworks were shut down again today, on account of a shortage of gas. The glass people have been greatly inconvenienced of late on this account.

A Blind Musician.

A blind musician was seen on the streets this afternoon. The man had a rich, musical voice, and collected many stray coppers during his travels.

Card of Thanks.

Mrs. Coulson and family wish to express their sincere thanks to friends for their kindnesses during their recent bereavement.

WELLSVILLE NOMINATION.

The Republicans Nominate Candidates for Municipal Offices.

The nomination of the Republican ticket in Wellsville on Saturday was spirited. F. W. Silvers was the nominee for mayor, polling over 100 more votes than Sinclair, who was out for the office a second time. For marshal, J. T. Warren was the successful man among six aspirants for the office. John W. Duncan followed close in his wake, a good second. W. J. Lones as solicitor had no opposition and his election is a foregone conclusion. For treasurer, T. R. Andrews received 509 votes to 385 registered against the name of W. G. Stewart. N. Champney beat James A. McFarland out for water works trustee. H. Michaels had no opposition for cemetery trustee. For street commissioner, H. A. Herbert was the successful candidate. Four aspirants to this office. John C. Davis, without opposition, was nominated constable. On the board of education there were three members to be chosen, Mrs. A. G. McKenzie, Samuel Stevenson and P. H. White being the nominees selected from five who wanted to be on the board. The nomination was the hottest that has taken place in the sister city for a number of years, a great deal of interest being centered on the mayoralty and marshalship contests.

THREE PASSED AWAY.

Consumption and Typhoid Fever Were the Causes.

Allison Fowler, of Spring street, died this morning at his late residence after an attack of typhoid fever. Deceased was 25 years of age and had only been ill with the disease two weeks, and his death was a surprise. A wife is left to mourn his demise. The funeral will take place Wednesday. Interment in Spring Grove cemetery.

Harry Boyer, aged 44 years, died at the residence of his brother-in-law, John Skelton, of California Hollow, Saturday night after a lengthy illness with consumption. The funeral will occur from deceased's late residence tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial in Riverview cemetery.

Miss Ollie Allison, daughter of Samuel B. Allison, of Chester, died at her father's home yesterday afternoon. The young lady had been ill with lung trouble for some time and was recovering, when she was attacked with typhoid fever, which finally resulted in her death. Funeral services will be held at her late residence on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Reverends Lee and Taggart officiating. Interment will be made at Flats cemetery.

THE LAST WEEK.

There Are Only Five More Days in Which to Work.

The last week of the campaign for nominations on the Republican ticket for municipal offices is at hand, and the candidates are filling their pockets with cards and going to work with more vim and hustle than they have yet shown. The intention of every candidate interviewed is to cover the entire city again in this short space of time, and it is probable that as many more cards will be put out this week as have been used in the past six weeks of the struggle. The campaign has been one of the longest ever known in the history of the city, and so far has been almost a perfectly clean one.

SMALL BOYS FIGHT.

A Fistic Encounter on Sixth Street Yesterday.

Two boys, neither of whom is over 12 years of age, engaged in a rough and tumble fight on Sixth street yesterday morning. The lads had an imaginary grievance, and went at each other like two professional pugilists. They were separated by a bystander and told to go home, but went down street a few feet, and pitched into each other. This time they were let go for almost five minutes to see which one would cry enough, but it began to look as though they would fight all day, and they were again separated and marched off in different directions by two bystanders.

ESTABLISH MORE LODGES.

The Stationary Engineers to Organize Branch Lodges.

The stationary engineers have met with such unprecedented success since the organization of the lodge here that a strong effort to establish branch lodges throughout the entire county district will be made. Funds are now being raised to accomplish this purpose. At their meeting tomorrow night more new members will be taken in, which will swell the membership to 53.

SUCCESSFUL SURGERY.

Dr. O. P. Andrews Performs a Difficult Operation.

Thomas W. Morris, editor of the NEWS REVIEW, has been suffering very keenly for some time past, with acute pains in his left leg, and the attending physician, Dr. O. P. Andrews, finally decided that relief could only be obtained through the use of the knife, in order to remove

pus which he believed was causing the trouble. The operation was successfully performed yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, and the leg was found to be in a very bad condition, very much worse than the physician had anticipated. The patient is now resting much easier, although quite weak. Dr. Andrews says that Mr. Morris will not be fit for active duty for some time to come, and has ordered that he shall take an unlimited vacation.

FARMERS DECEIVE

Grocers in Their Dealings With Them in Selling Topped Barrels of Apples.

A great deal of complaint is made by the grocers of the city against unprincipled farmers who practice deception in their dealings with them. A prominent grocer said that out of the majority of apples that he had purchased during the season, that almost every barrel was topped at both ends, that is, a few good apples were placed on top to deceive and the rest were made up of an inferior grade. Apparently the same deception has been carried out on a number of other grocers and the question of petitioning the legislature to enact some law, making it punishable with fine and imprisonment any such misrepresentation, is being talked of.

Fred H. Bostwick Goes to Denver Tomorrow.

Mr. Fred H. Bostwick, for some time past the genial and accommodating manager of the Ceramic Light company, of this city, leaves tomorrow for Denver, where he has accepted a position as manager of the sales department of the Hendrie and Bolthoff manufacturing company of that city. Mrs. Bostwick will accompany him. Mr. and Mrs. Bostwick made many warm friends during their stay in this city, who will learn with regret that they are about to leave, but at the same time will wish them the greatest of success in their new home.

NEAR DEATH'S DOOR.

And Sadly Afflicted by the Terrible Ravages of a Dread Disease.

Mary, the little daughter of J. W. Hunter, of Fourth street, is very low with typhoid fever. The little one is grievously affected by the ravages of the disease. Already she has lost her eyesight, and her sense of hearing is about gone; truly a sad condition to be in. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved parents.

Will Meet Tomorrow Night.

The street committee will meet tomorrow night to again take up the subject of the vehicle ordinance. It is probable that a new ordinance will be framed, leaving out a great many objectionable features that were in the one that was first presented to council. In a conversation with one of the members of the committee this morning he stated that he would be in favor of a sliding scale. The new ordinance will be presented to council at its next meeting.

To Locate in Missouri.

T. S. McCready, wife and son Ralph, left on the Virginia Saturday night, bound for Warrenton, Mo. They will travel as far as St. Louis by boat, and then journey the remainder of the distance by rail. Mrs. McCready has been in declining health for several years, and a change of climate, it is thought, will prove beneficial to her. Mr. McCready has not decided what business to embark in out there.

A False Alarm.

A stove became clogged and filled with smoke in the rooms occupied by J. T. Roberts and family, in the upper story of the Kirk block, this morning. Someone sent in an alarm and the department responded and found upon arrival that there was no fire. The bell at city hall is out of order, and only sounded once when the alarm was sent in.

Eighth Anniversary.

A large audience attended the eighth anniversary of the United Presbyterian church in East End last night. Reverend Greene reviewed the progress of the church since its inception. From a mere handful of members the church has increased to a large congregation, and is now in a prosperous condition.

Died This Morning.

The 18-months-old son of Harry Lounds, of Wellsville, died this morning. The funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. Lounds has many friends in this city, who will be pained to hear of his bereavement.
